January 22, 2014: $3.23/g (U.S. Average: $3.27/g)

Neighboring areas and their current gas prices:

Las Vegas- $3.68/g, down 5.6 cents per gallon from last week's $3.74/g.

Phoenix- $3.08/g, down 9.4 cents per gallon from last week's $3.17/g.

Tucson- $2.98/g, up 6.0 cents per gallon from last week's $2.92/g.

"We continue to see gasoline prices bouncing off lows, only to retreat them again and again. While prices jumped in some places, it's being offset by drops elsewhere, and that has kept alive the possibility of briefly seeing the national average fall to the lowest level since 2021," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. "We remain just a nickel or so away from a $2.99 national average, and while the window of opportunity continues to slowly close, with refiners now starting the purge of winter gasoline on the West Coast, we still have a low level chance of getting there. But make no mistake- if we do see a national average of $2.99 per gallon, it won't last long as we start to turn the corner and get closer to the start of the transition to summer gasoline."
