In September 2022, President Biden was asked on 60 Minutes what he would say to Putin if he threatened to use tactical nuclear weapons in Ukraine. His response was “Don’t, Don’t, Don’t”. The Russians didn’t use any nukes, but they continued and expanded the war in Ukraine.

On April 12 of this year, when Biden was asked what he would tell Iran about direct military attacks on Israel, he gave a one word response, “Don’t”. On April 13, Iran sent over 300 missiles and armed drones directed at Israel.

While these replies were similar, they may be proof of Biden’s cognitive decline. In 2021, the President used two one syllable words and one two syllable words, “Don’t come over.” In 2022, Joe answered with a one syllable word, three times, “Don’t, Don’t, Don’t.” Earlier this month, he used this one syllable word just one time, “Don’t”. One worries that if his mind erodes much more, Biden’s response to our enemies’ threats will be reduced even more and he will tell them, “Do”.

That the once powerful United States could have a foreign policy reduced to one word, or even three words, is an embarrassment to our citizens and an invitation to our enemies to take advantage of us. They are at every turn. As far as immigration is concerned, the countries who hate us, (and those that simply want to take advantage of the situation), are sending their criminals, terrorists and crazies to cross our borders illegally. Economically, they take our foreign aid money and constantly vote against our interests in the United Nations. Our “progressive” leaders in government and the media handcuff us with costly Green agendas and our competing and enemy nations keep building new coal plants weekly.

With the world on the brink of a possible world war, with the economic threat from China, with our military people being injured and killed by Iranian surrogates and our citizens held as hostages by Hamas, the upcoming election should be a resounding rejection of “Don’t Joe Biden” and the whole Democrat party. At every level of government where the Democrats hold power, everything is screwed up. Democrat cities are cesspools filled with homeless drug addicts and violent criminals.

Democrat states pass laws that encourage crime, overtax and over regulate businesses, and ruin education by not teaching the basics, but teaching woke, progressive ideas about sexual identity, cross dressing and excluding parents from making decisions about their own children. The left’s answer to low test scores in our schools is to throw more money at them. Low test scores, throw more money. It doesn’t work. Is it any wonder people are fleeing these states?

With all of the videos of Joe Biden and Kamala Harris displaying all of their verbal miscues, missteps and confusing utterances, Republicans are missing a golden opportunity if they don’t compile and air videos of these two buffoons and all of their antics. One can envision a political ad with Donald Trump stating that he disagrees with Joe Biden on almost every issue. But they do agree on one thing:

before voting for any Democrat - then the video should morph into the picture of Joe Biden saying, "Don't, Don't, Don't."
